Is Farming Really "The Weeds"?

Some people say that is putting it mildly! Whether the answer is yes or no depends largely upon the way in which the land is being used.

Therefore, this year we are insisting that fields which are producing weeds be sprayed with 2, 4-D or taken care of in some other satisfactory manner. Most of you know right now pretty well what weeds you will have this summer and where they will be, so act accordingly.

It is no use thinking of weed control when the plants are already setting seed. Now is the hour, make arrangements to have them controlled. In this way you will not only be making a greater profit from the increased yield, but you will also be saving yourself, your neighbors and the weed inspector a lot of trouble later on.

To encourage weed control in this area the municipality is distributing 2, 4-D for use on district farms at one dollar per gallon below cost price. At this rate 2, 4-D will cost from 35 to 45 cents per acre, depending on type of weed, stage of growth and intensity of infestation. In general, perennial weeds require a stronger application than annual weeds and likewise in the early stage of growth most weeds will require a milder application than they will in the more advanced stages.

Complete instructions are on the can. Follow them and you will have very little difficulty. The 2, 4-D handled by us this year will be Ethyl Ester 64-oz. acid per gallon.

Everyone needing 2, 4-D this summer is urged to place an estimate of their requirements with the municipal secretary or myself as soon as possible so that we will have some idea of how much to order. This estimate may be made either in quantity of 2, 4-D required or acreage to be sprayed.

The Trend In England

The Labor party continues to stage an apparent comeback in Great Britain, and the latest manifestation of this trend came in nation-wide local government elections. The returns from practically all of these boroughs in England-Wales, where voting was held earlier this month, gave Labor a gain of 568 town council seats and 15 lost. The Conservatives lost 406, gained 46. The Independents lost over 201 seats, with comparatively few gains, and the Liberals also lost more seats than they gained.

These results are not necessarily indicative of true sentiments in England, but combined with the recent results in urban voting, they show an apparent trend toward the Labor party. Such a trend might make it very difficult for Churchill's government to remain in power another three years, as Churchill hopes to do.

Laborites, meanwhile, are now clamoring for another election this fall. Unless the tide is reversed, Labor will probably be able to force a new election within a year or eighteen months at most.

Danger In Water Sports

Summer brings vacation days, with most of the people of the nation spending more and more time in the out-of-doors. Unfortunately, some of these outings, which should bring pleasure and relaxation to everyone, result in tragedies that bring sorrow to happy families.

Many accidents are attributed to carelessness in the water. The surf attracts millions, with inevitable drownings, as venturesome individuals go out too far. Inland lakes, ponds and rivers likewise claim their victims, with non-swimmers occasionally getting into deep water with fatal consequences.

Accidents take a terrible toll of life in this country every year. It is well, therefore, to caution everybody about the dangers that lurk in water, known as well as unknown. Parents, who read this article, might permit it to remind them to give a warning to their children, with particular emphasis upon the need of caution in the water.

Decline of Wheat

The prairie provinces were scheduled to lose seven seats in the house of commons under regulations regarding provincial representation. The decline was due to the fact that the population increase in this area has not kept pace with the increase in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia.

Alberta will retain 17 seats, as this province's population has shown a substantial increase. Saskatchewan should drop from 20 to 15 seats, and Manitoba from 16 to 14. However, special consideration was given Saskatchewan at the request of Prime Minister St. Laurent by reducing our sister province's representation by only 15 per cent or three members instead of five.

Commenting on how Canada's changing industrial scene is affecting politics, the Financial Post of Toronto recalls that in 1939 Kenneth W. Taylor, now associate deputy minister of finance, but then professor of political economy at McMaster University, prophesied this shift in political influence and warned that it might well tend to destroy the unifying influence of wheat on the Canadian scene.

He said: "The decline in the importance of wheat and the rapid increase in the importance of the new staples (celanese, etc.), Ontario and Quebec are beginning to lose interest in the prairies. They need the prairie markets and the prairie traffic less than before and the time may come in the not very distant future when the east may be inclined to write the prairies off as worth troubling about."

How To Quit Smoking

Dr. Gedolol McHugh, Professor of Psychology at Duke University, has the newest solution on how to stop smoking. About his new method, he says: "We set out to try for complete control over only a segment of the day, preferably at the beginning. The over-user of tobacco sets aside a reasonable period at the start of the day and he does not smoke in that period of one hour, two hours, three hours, no matter how much he wants to.

"But the instant that time is passed, he may smoke as usual all the rest of the day." Dr. McHugh says this goal is not too difficult and that, by using this system smokers find that they can control their desire to smoke. Pretty soon, the Professor says, smokers begin to increase the non-smoking part of their day, and, eventually, come to the point where they can choose whether or not they want to.

"When they reach this point, the Professor believes, they have brought themselves to a psychological attitude which enables them to stop smoking altogether, if they so desire." The most interesting thing about Dr. McHugh's proposal is the fact that it comes from a Professor of Duke University—a school which was endowed by the late James Buchanan Duke, of tobacco-industry fame.

Why Not Paint a Clear Picture?

(From the Camrose Canadian)

There is a group of people who are trying to confuse the rural electrification picture in Alberta. They are undoubtedly sincere in their desire to make the utility a publicly owned affair. They use comparisons between Alberta and Manitoba and between Alberta and Saskatchewan to entice the Alberta farmers under their wing. It is true that Manitoba builds the lines direct to the farm to be served and that there are 27,000 farms already electrified in Manitoba. It is also true that the Manitoba Power Commission owes the Provincial Government the sum of $35,000,000, with an addition of $10,000,000 under authorization and not yet expended. This part of the story is never mentioned from the public platform. And another thing, Manitoba has had a surplus of power since 1910 and has been in the rural electrification picture for twenty years. Likewise, the Saskatchewan Power Commission owes the Saskatchewan Provincial Government $41,000,000. This province has made no bones of its inability to construct free rural lines to farm premises. Saskatchewan is not so fortunately situated as either Manitoba or Alberta in the matter of power resources. She has few hydro potentials near to present centres of population. Should Alberta decide to make power a publicly owned utility at the present time, the Province would be required to assume an additional bonded indebtedness of $100,000,000. As far as rates go at the present time, Alberta customers enjoy rates as low as Manitoba and lower than Saskatchewan and are not carrying any of the bonded indebtedness as an indirect charge against the utility. Another interesting feature of the argument is that Manitoba's 27,000 rural installations are confined within a geographical area of less than one-third the area in Alberta from the Edmonton district south to the international border, eliminating the Peace River area entirely.

When It's May!

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

Lucky is the man whose wife understands perfectly why he wants to go fishing, and, with a cheerful smile, waves him goodbye and wishes him good luck.

For some reason, such a woman is the exception rather than the rule.

There is something in the psychology of the human male — perhaps a throwback trait to his remote ancestors—that impels him to hike into the woods in May and catch some fish before his neighbors go out and catch them all.

There is also something in the psychology of the feminine sex—perhaps a more practical and realistic attitude—that causes a wife to regard the whole excursion as an unproductive waste of time.

Voice of the People

Everyone who says the Liberals are losing, you don't know what they're talking about.

In its latest analysis of voting attitudes, the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion reported a two-point gain for the Liberal party.

The question asked of voting-age Canadians was this: "If a federal election were held today, would you favor the candidate of the P.C., Liberal, C.C.F., or other party?"

The answers given by Canadians from coast-to-coast showed that 48% preferred the Liberal party, a 2 point gain from the previous poll taken in February 1952; the Tories dropped to 32% (from 33% in Feb.) and the C.C.F. remained unchanged at 13%.

There was no mention of Social Credit, but the party isn't even as important as the C.C.F. with only 13% of the Canadian people in favor of them.

Wild Oats in '52

Despite new and efficient tillage machines and a variety of effective weed-killing chemicals, the Wild Oat continues to be the most expensive weed in Western Canada. The control of wild oats, however, is not a lost cause. This year, with Spring arriving much earlier than usual, presents farmers with a golden opportunity to destroy a large number of wild oats.

Established Facts. Research has established the following important facts with respect to the growth of wild oats. (1) At maturity, the wild oat seed has a strong dormancy. In other words, it must after-ripen before it will germinate. (2) The seed must be dried before its dormancy can be broken. (3) Wild oats germinate at low temperatures. It has been found that few seeds sprout at temperatures above 50°F.

Conditions this Spring have been ideal for drying and after-ripening wild oat seeds present on or near the surface of the soil. Consequently, many of these seeds, when buried by cultivation, will grow almost immediately. Most farmers, therefore, are likely to get a heavy growth of wild oats on infested fields this Spring.

Key to Control. The key to effective control lies in the fact that wild oat seeds grow well at low temperatures, and that few germinate after the soil temperature exceeds 50°F. In many districts of Western Canada a soil temperature of 50°F. will be reached very early this year. Consequently, farmers who cultivate their infested fields periodically until the soil warms up to this temperature will be able to kill a great many wild oats. On the basis of past field results, it is safe to predict that crops which are seeded after this time this Spring will be almost free of wild oats in 1952. Yes, indeed, this year looks like a good one in which to "catch up to" a lot of wild oats.

Detailed information on wild oat control is contained in our newly-revised circular called "Wild Oat Control by Cultural Methods." You can obtain a free copy of this bulletin from the local agent of the Line Elevator Companies listed above.

Who, Me? Nervous?

Lieutenant Bailey, youthful air force pilot, had just landed his fighter after a mission north of the Thirty-eighth Parallel and went into report to his commanding officer.

"Were you nervous during the attack?" inquired the C.O.

"Who? Me?" asked Bailey. "No sir, I was as cool as a cucumber through the whole show."

"Swell," replied the C.O. "I just thought you might have been a little jittery when you radioed that 15,000 enemy jets were coming at eight feet."

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa:

I have a great problem on my hands. I have a daughter who has a small child between two and three years old. I have had to take care of the child most of the time. The mother is sick lots and I have to care for them both.

They have plenty and they could hire help, but they think it is my place to care for them. The husband will not help in any way and he doesn't think his people should help. I have chances to go some but they don't want me to go.

I am a widow and I have more children I could live with but they think my place is to slave for them. I am getting old and it is a hard job. Please give me your opinion.

A WORRIED MOTHER.

Answer:

Your children should be ashamed of themselves for such an attitude. While all mothers like to help their children when they need it, it is unexcusable for them to feel that their mother, who has already reared a family, should take over their responsibilities.

You have evidently taught your children to be selfish and inconsiderate of you or your husband may have been to blame. When children grow up and are not taught to help their mother or consider her feelings, they become the "gimme" type and expect to be on the receiving end of things for the rest of their lives. These children's idea of a good mother is for her to be a glorified servant.

I fear it is too late for you to do much with such a group as you seem to have reared but, if I were you, I would try to get a job of some kind and live in a boarding house or two rooms of my own. Then perhaps your son-in-law would be eager to hire help and get you to come back on a different basis to supervise his household. Independence makes a lot of difference in the way people look at situations.

An elderly couple asked me if I would make them some bread. So that I did. The man took the bread home that night. I kept a loaf myself and when I tasted it my heart fell to my shoes as it was made of Izol powder. A hen had got into the shed where we had our flour and knocked a package of Izol powder down on the flour and it went through the whole sack. This couple had their daughter with them who is a nurse. Was my face ever red, and I sure was embarrassed to have to face them all the next morning!

This Agriculture

By G. W. ROBERTSON

Field Supervisor, Morrin, Alta.

This year one factor in the farming practices in Starland municipality has been so outstanding as to attract the attention and excite the favorable comment of different visiting authorities—the almost complete abandonment of the practice of stubble burning.

This development is all the more remarkable when we remember that the stubble of the 1951 crop was one of the heaviest with which we have ever had to deal. A difficult job has been done and it has been done extremely well.

For the most part tillers and discers were able to do the work but harrows and cultivators of one kind and another were supplementary machines which played an important part.

It is quite true that this season may provide a better opportunity for demonstrating the possibility of using blade machinery under our conditions than has been the case for the past year or two. However, under conditions encountered this year in this area the blades played no significant part.

We cannot read the stars but as surely as night follows day a cycle of dry years will follow the cycle of wet years which we have recently experienced. When such years come as come they will, an ample trash cover may well prove to be one of our greatest assets.

Young People Attend Annual Youth Rally

BENALTO—On the 24th of May over 40 young people from the Crossfield Baptist Church journeyed west of Red Deer to Benalto for their annual Youth Rally. Other years a Greyhound bus was chartered, this year they travelled by car.

The young people from the churches had charge of the services. Their musical numbers, reports and messages were an inspiration and blessing to all. Crossfield won top honors in the Bible quiz, but were not so successful in the "Big League" softball game, losing to Edmonton by two runs.

This rally grows bigger and better every year. Almost three hundred were in attendance on Saturday. A picnic supper and a grand evening service brought to an end a perfect day.

The 24th of May is past for another year, but the blessings received will linger on in the memories of those present for months to come.

Canada has one doctor to each 977 of population; the U.S.S.R. has about one doctor to every 10,000 population.
